

May 2007

CCC, General statement

CCC (Chinese Compulsary Certification) is covering safety and EMC requirements for certain equipment (mainly products for household and industrial use) including a number of non-electrical products like automobile tires, agricultural machinery and safety glasses.

All products subject to the compulsory certification are listed in the "First Catalogue of Products Subject to Compulsory Certification" comprising 19 product groups and subdivided into 132 product categories.

Since no product group or category is covering "electrical measuring equipment"
Brüel & Kjær products are not subject to CCC marking and certification.

If you have any further questions please don't hesitate to contact your normal Sales Representative, who will make sure that you get satisfactory answers to specific questions.

Klaus S. Jørgensen
Global Quality Assurance Manager